Are you a Locavore?
If you search for or buy and consume locally grown food produced within 100 miles of your home, then you are a Locavore!

Grow local/buy local
Sustainable living means producing and marketing food closer to our local communities. The Urban Farming Workshop series presents information that will help individuals and businesses successfully grow and market food products in Central Florida.

Registration
Pre-registration required – $15 per person includes lunch and program materials! Please see back of flyer.

For further info, call Darla Wilkes at 407-254-9202 or darla.wilkes@ocfl.net.

Learn about hydroponics, field and raised bed vegetable production, growing for edible landscapes, small livestock options and alternative methods for producing & marketing food.
