Vegetable Production for Local Markets

Successful techniques for small farms and market gardens to produce vegetables and sell them at local markets.
Saturday, January 31, 2015

Are you a Locavore?

If you search for and consume locally grown food produced within 100 miles of your home, you are a Locavore!

Grow local / buy local

Sustainable living means producing and marketing food closer to our local communities. This workshop will help you successfully grow and market vegetables in Central Florida.

Pre-registration required – $20 per person includes program materials!
Class limit is 20 to accommodate hands on activities. See back of flyer for agenda.

For further info, call Darla Wilkes at 407-254-9202 or darla.wilkes@ocfl.net or Richard Tyson at 407-254-9201 or rvt@ufl.edu.

Learn about soils, plant nutrition, field and raised bed vegetable production, hydroponics, aquaponics, key elements of business plans and marketing.

Registration

Pre-registration required
Thursday January 29, 2015, class limit 20

Workshop Time & Date
9:30 a.m. to 1:00 pm, Saturday January 31

Location
Orange County Extension Education Center
6021 South Conway Road
Orlando, Florida  32812

http://orange.ifas.ufl.edu/
“The Foundation for the Gator Nation” An Equal Opportunity Institution. Persons with disabilities needing assistance to attend should contact Darla at 407-254-9202 at least 5 working days before the event.
Pay by credit card, visit vegprodmarket.eventbrite.com (fees apply).

For more information call Darla Wilkes at 407-254-9202 or darla.wilkes@ocfl.net or Richard Tyson 407-254-9201 or rvt@ufl.edu

Agenda

- 9:30–9:45 Introduction
- 9:45–10:45 Soils, Seeds, Plant Nutrition, Grow Your Own Transplants
- 10:45–11:30 Vegetable Production Systems, Irrigation, Fertilization and Pest Control
- 11:30–11:45 Break
- 11:45–12:15 Tour / Q&A of Vegetable and Greenhouse Demonstrations
- 12:15–1:00 Marketing, Key Elements of Business Plans